Do you love being in touch with nature? Would you like to work as close to the action as possible? Then a career as a forestry technician is just right for you!

As a true forest manager, you will monitor and manage the forest in consultation with forest engineers. You will welcome visitors and raise their awareness of the importance of protecting nature and biodiversity. At a time when the environment and climate change are the focus of attention, the forest is both an asset and an obvious challenge for society.

The forester has to take care of this forest, which is so important to us, every day. She monitors the health and renewal of this forest and maintains this extraordinary heritage so that it can be passed on to future generations. If that isn't a profession with a future!
